

Dave Specht is the Director of the Drucker School Global Family Business Institute. Prior to the Drucker School he spent nearly 5 years developing the Family Dynamics Program at Wells Fargo Private Bank. While there he trained over 2,500 of their top advisors to incorporate the non-financial components of generational business and wealth continuity.

Before Wells, he founded a family business consulting firm called, Advising Generations and served on the faculty at The University of Nebraska where he established their family business program.

Specht is a two-time author. His latest book is called, "The Family Business Whisperer." His personal mission in this work is to, "Preserve Families and Perpetuate Businesses."

He is happily married and has 6 children. Dave studied Business Administration at Brigham Young University-Idaho and received a Master's Degree in Tax and Financial Planning from San Diego State University.
